Profile

Vasiliki graduated from Glasgow School of Art in 2004 and she is a practicing architect in Greece since 2005. Lighting design started as an area of interest and soon gave her a new academic and professional direction. She completed the MSc Light and Lighting course at the Bartlett, UCL in 2006 and soon after joined Arup Lighting in London.

Vasiliki's research on Urban Lighting Patterns on Glasgow's riverfront was shortlisted at the Young Lighter Awards in 2009 and was later published from University of Lausanne. The paper further enhanced was presented at the PLDC 2011 Lighting Conference.

In July 2013, Vasiliki moved from a senior lighting designer role at Arup to establish her own independent consultancy, Idea Design Ltd. The consultancy is based in London and offers lighting design, architectural and project management services.

Vasiliki has been involved as a lighting advisor with The Rothschild Foundation and she is active with the IALD Membership Committee, currently serving for a second term.

At the 2016 Lighting Design Awards in London, Vasiliki was nominated as one of the 40 under 40 lighting designers. The nomination highlights the new generation of lighting designers across 20 countries.
